DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 8-26-04 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

3. Claims 10-20 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chein (GB2320190).

The claims are drawn to kit with human growth hormone and a supplemental hormone that is administered separately.

Applicants argue that the “relevant difference between an otherwise healthy human subject and one afflicted with multiple sclerosis (MS) lies in body temperature.” Applicants argue that a critical temperature exist for MS patients that must be reached prior to hormonal administration. If this temperature is not reached, the thyroid hormone dosage has to be increased until the temperature is reached,

Applicants arguments, filed 9-01-04, have been considered but have not been found persuasive.

Art Unit: 1654

The claim are drawn to a kit. As stated in the previous office action, the reference discloses all of the components to that kit. Applicants have not presented any difference between the disclosed components of the kit and the instant components. Applicant's arguments with regards to MS patients and body temperatures do not establish a distinction between the components of the kit disclosed in the reference and the components of the kit disclosed in the instant claims. As stated in the previous office action, the language of symptoms associated with multiple sclerosis is an intended use limitation and intended use or field of use. Such language will not limit the scope of a claim. Moreover, where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established. In re Best, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977).

"When the PTO shows a sound basis for believing that the products of the applicant and the prior art are the same, the applicant has the burden of showing that they are not." In re Spada, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990). Therefore, the prima facie case can be rebutted by evidence showing that the prior art products do not necessarily possess the characteristics of the claimed product. In re Best, supra. Applicants have not met their burden of proof
